BACKGROUND
With the advent of the fourth industrial revolution (4IR) and Covid-induced new normal regime, the process of digital transformation of the economy has seen a new momentum. The future of employment is changing drastically, while growth, competitiveness and sustainability of businesses is getting redefined disruptively. Likewise, the wave of change is affecting public service delivery as well.

In this journey, IT/ITeS professionals have profound role to play – as manager and leader. In order to help organizations – from private, public and development sectors – build human competencies, Institute of Business Administration (IBA), University of Dhaka has launched an executive development program – Advanced Certificate for Management Professionals (ACMP) 4.0 – for IT/ITeS professionals across the sectors. IBA has already trained 845 professionals from more than 115 companies since 2017. Backed by the success of the program and general demand for ACMP 4.0 certification, IBA will take a new cohort of trainees in spring 2021.

ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA
Applicants for ACMP 4.0 should (i) be IT/ITeS professionals working in any sector, (ii) have a bachelor degree (or equivalent) in any discipline, and (iii) a minimum of two years of work experience. In exceptional cases, the requirement may be relaxed at the discretion of the IBA authority.
